LOVE-CRAZED MAN SHOOTS AT WOMAN

Leon Miller Tries to Murder Mrs. Margaret Lang, and Angry Crowd Nearly Kicks Assailant to Death.

FIRED THREE BULLETS AND NEARLY HIT GIRL

Man Was in Love with Married Woman and He Became Desperate When She Refused to Encourage Him.

Leon Miller, a love-crazed mechanic of No. 467 West Forty-second street, wishes to-day that he hadn't fired three shots at pretty Mrs. Margaret Lang wife of Joseph Lang, who keeps a deli-catessen store at No. 582 Eleventh avemue, because a large crowd of people who witnessed the assault were so indignant that they attacked Miller and almost beat him into unconsciousness before a policeman rescued him. Miller says that he wants to die if Mrs. Lang will not love him, but he doesn't want to be kicked to death. It was while Mrs. Lang's husband was at the lodge last night that Miller went to the store and began making love to Mrs. "Lang. It wasn't his first per ance by any means. Mrs. Lang repulsed him, as usual, but Miller insisted, until she put him out of the store. It was then that he stood on the sidewall and sent three bullets at her through window. None of the shots tool effect, but one came very near hitting Mrs. Lang's little daughter. In the West Side Court to-day Mrs. Lang told her story to an Evening World reporter. She said: "Leon Miller was a friend of my husband. They came here from the same ed and turned province in Germany ten years ago and have always been friendly since, for my husband never knew of the advances the man was making to me. I did not dare to tell him for fear he would kill

"Last night after my husband went to the lodge he came around, and when all the customers had left the store he tried to throw his arms around me. I put him out of the store, and as I closed the door on him he said: 'If I cannot have you, no one else will.' Then he went outside and fired the shots.'

All that Miller had to say to-day was that a woman loved as much as Mrs. Lang was by him ought to return that leve. If she wouldn't change her mind about the matter, he said, he would kill himself as soon as he was free.

DOUBLE WOE FOR WOMAN.

Husband Found Hanging After Her Father Had Died. NORTHPORT, L. I., March 25 .- The body of Salah J. Smith, for twelve years head farmer on the estate of the late Charles A. Chesebrough, was found hanging from a rafter in the barn. His mind had become affected over the loss of his position. He was forty years old and leaves a widow and three children.

The father of Mrs. Smith died during the night from pneumonia.
